Bands, 4 Drum and Bugle Corps Already Listed for Patriotic Rally Sept. 13.

Plans for a huge "Wake Up America Day" patriotic rally to be held here Sept. 13, were discussed last night at a meeting of committees at the V. F. W. hall, South Main street.

It was reported that arrangements have been made thus far for 11 bands and four drum and bugle corps to participate, representing high schools in Bucyrus, Lawrence, Mt. Gilead, Kenton,
Mt. Gallien, Forest, Shelby, Marion, Carey, Marysville and Union. A prize of $100 will be awarded to the best band.

Plans also were discussed for various phases of the parade and a patriotic program at the fairgrounds, immediately following the parade. Committees reported that Judge Arthur H. Day of the Ohio supreme court will be one of the speakers and that representatives have been sent to other communities to speak.

Choruses, Choirs to Sing

The program also will include choruses and choir groups and will close with a large fireworks display.

The parade, which will begin in the fairgrounds and terminate in the city center, will include a large number of floats and representing various civic and fraternal groups. Prizes totaling $30 have been offered for the floats best trying out the theme: "Americanism."

Major George T. Gernan
will be grand marshal for the parade and the band groups will be headed by Homer E. Huffman, chief of the Harding High school band.

One of a number of similar patriotic rallies being held throughout the country under sponsorship of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the program here is in charge of the Marion patriotic, civic and fraternal groups. Attending the parade last night were representatives of Marion Navy club, American Legion, Knights of Columbus, Elks and Eagles lodges.
Marion Junior Chamber of Commerce, Boy Scouts of America, the Marion High school, Omer-low lodge, V. F. W. and Rooster lodge No. 1281, and A. F. L.

Also attending the meeting were Safety-Security Director
Clyde C. Caldwell, Police Chief
William E. Marks and Capt. O. A.
Hart of the fire department.

Float Entries Sought

William Sherman, general chairman of arrangements today urged organizations interested in patriotic work to take part in the parade and to enter floats. The parade program is being worked on a non-sectarian and non-political basis and speakers have been asked to discuss only patriotic subjects, he reported.

It was decided that if weather unfavorable on Sept. 13, the parade will be held the following day. The parade was tentatively scheduled to start at 7 p. m., with the program at the fairgrounds beginning under way about an hour later.

GUARDSMEN RETURN FROM MANEUVERS

Tell of Rigorous Training
Under Adverse Conditions.

Marion's National Guardsmen returned home this morning from three weeks of rigorous training in the Second Army maneuvers in Wisconsin.

The train pulled into the depot at 2:30 and the men of Headquarters detachment and Co. D, 168th Infantry went immediately to the Armory where they had breakfast and put their equipment in place before going to their homes at 10 a. m.

This year's training program was the most intensive the National Guard has been put through, in the opinion of officers. The men had to carry on in rain, mud and sand and battle cold and mosquitoes. Virtually every Marion guardsman came home with a cold.

Lots of Rain

It rained more than half the time during the three weeks. The last day of the fifth exercise, in-

posed of Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky

George F. Fetter To Take Over New Duties As City Fire Captain Sunday

George F. Fetter, 36, of 498
Pearl street, recently appointed captain in the city fire department, will take over his new duties tomorrow. He will be stationed at the Mark Street station.

Mr. Fetter, who has been a member of the department for more than 12 years, fills the vacancy created by the retirement June 25 of Captain A. O.
Dennis. He joined the department
Feb. 1, 1928. For two and one-half years he was at the Mark Street station and for the last 10
he has been at the Central station.

He has participated in special activities of the department,

years as a member of the inspector squad. He also has activated in directing the instruction of recruits in Red Cross first aid treatment. Recently he helped with conducting a first aid class for school bus drivers.

The appointment was made by

Police To Start
New Traffic Case
Tickets Tuesday

New traffic violation tickets, providing an affidavit for arrest of a violator and a waiver to permit payment of fines without appearance in court, will be put in use here Tuesday by the police department, Clyde C. Caldwell, safety-service director, announced today.

The tickets were evolved under the new program of stringent enforcement of traffic ordinances, inaugurated with revamping of the city traffic code and installation of parking meters in the uptown section.

Traffic ticket books as provided for members of the police department are comprised of original and duplicate stubs. The first to be turned over to municipal court is an affidavit for the arrest of a violator. When officers issue the ticket it may be signed by the offender, showing that the paper has been legally served.

The duplicate, which is given to the violator, bears a waiver and plea. By signing the ticket a motorist may authorize the municipal clerk to enter a plea of guilty to the charge and voluntarily pay the minimum penalty designated for the violation. This permits motorists to appear in court immediately or mail the violation tag, with the fine attached, rather than appear at the usual weekly session of traffic court.

The tickets, similar to those used in Columbus and other large cities, have become popular through the simplification of conducting traffic enforcement. When the ticket books are issued to the officers, each numbered tag will be recorded as a means of checking the disposition of each case.

The new tags measure approximately three by six inches. Original copies are white, while duplicates issued to violators are yellow.

As plans to use the new system were announced, Municipal Judge Hazen warned motorists that no further leniency will be shown violators. He pointed out that during the past three weeks reasonable excuses were grounds for dismissal of charges, in order that drivers might become better acquainted with the new parking system. In the future the court will work in conjunction with other departments in the policy of strict enforcement, the judge warned.

RAILWAY
HEAD HERE TRANSFERRED

Transfer of Frank F. Foster of 1071 East Church street, who has been the Pennsylvania railroad agent here for the past three years, to fill a similar position at Springfield, was announced today. Mr. Foster will take over new duties Monday. R. E. Sanderson of Greenville, O., will be transferred to Marion to fill the position of agent here.

PARKING METER TOTAL
$802 FIRST 24 DAYS

Parking meter collections for the three-day period ending yesterday morning amounted to $82.38, an average of 30 cents a day for each of the 103 meters.
City Auditor Elmer Shaw reported. This brought the total for the first 24 days the meters were in operation to $802.76, an average of 25 cents a day for each meter.

DRAFT AROUSES
HOUSE CRITICS

But Even Foes Concede Bill
Will Pass Next Week,
Despite Opposition.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31—Various sections of the Burke-Wadsworth military training bill aroused scattered opposition in house today, but all critics apparently agreed that even a combination of their forces would not defeat the legislation next week.

As preparations to start debate Tuesday went on behind the scenes, informed members predicted that the principal fights would develop over the provisions:

1. That fixing 21 to 44, inclusive as the age range of men who would register and be subject to conscription.

2. That giving the government power to take over industrial plants for defense purposes.

Will Seek Reduction

The draft of the bill approved by the house military committee contains the 21-44 age range, but several representatives said they would seek to reduce the spread to 21 to 30, inclusive, the age limits voted by the senate when it passed the bill this week. On the other hand, Rep. Thompson, Democrat of Texas, advocated restriction of all men 18 to 64, inclusive, though only those 21 to 44 would be subject to the draft.

Representatives Smith, Democrat, and Brooks, Democrat of Louisiana, planned a counter proposal to authorize the government to "take over defense plants only on a rental or lease basis. They said this would prevent the accumulation of too much industrial machinery in government hands.

Three Other Issues

In addition to these two major issues, other questions which devoured considerably in internal discussions of members were:

Whether the legislation should provide only for the "training" of men called up or whether the provision "training and service" should be permitted to stand.

Whether the senate limitation of $500,000 on the number of men for training in service at any time should be increased to $1,000,- 000 or recommended by the house committee to provide an allocation for the army as well.

Whether there should be adequate provision for the payment of expenses of men called up for training and service.

The Stars Say—

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE
For Sunday, Sept. 1

SUNDAY'S horoscope is an excellent one for religious, mystical, humanitarian and kindred pursuits, with the prospect of romance, social adventure and attachments of an unconventional or irregular aspect having full swing. But it is likely that this brings grief, calamity or regret if not discreetly handled.

Those whose birthday it is may have an exciting and dramatic year, with many peculiar or intriguing adventures, gainful and benefic if managed with discretion, but perilous and devastating if rushed into precipitately and rashly. Social and romantic activities may be paragon to business or ordinary interests.

A child born on this day may be active and dynamic, possibly in some unusual or spectacular way. It should be original, ingenious, artistic and genial.

For Monday, Sept. 2

MONDAY'S astrological forecast is for splendid opportunity for progress and prosperity, with high aims and aspirations attaining lofty goals by the use of greatly stimulated forces and faculties. It is time for dynamic action and expansive purpose, with all contributing to eminent success and satisfaction, but be discreet with all writings and documents.

Those whose birthday it is are on the threshold of a year of high fulfillment, with great ambitions and worthy aspirations attained by splendid energies and initiative as well as sound plans, executive ability and solid support from those in exalted positions. It is a time for pushing with vigor and logic, but with precaution as to litigation and complications through papers or writings.

A child born on this day may be a patient, expansive, generous and great spirited for public welfare, although egotistic, bombastic and self-centered. However, it should attain popularity and high personal prestige, and perhaps public acclaim or trust.

For Tuesday, Sept. 3

According to the lunar as well as mutual aspects of major planets, this is likely to be a day of excitement, agitation, commotion and surprises. Some occurrence, seemingly springing from nowhere, may descend with all the force of a tornado, to have a radical and far-reaching effect on the future and its fortunes. Strange persons and unique situations may give the element of drama and novelty to the life. All departments of living are involved, with unexpected change, new surroundings and fresh objectives. Others contribute, probably in curious ways, to make

Labor Day

Under the dictatorships of Europe there is no such thing as freedom to work where you please, and quit a job whenever such action suits your convenience.

That is an inherited privilege of American labor. It is cheerfully yielded to the needs of national defense—and as quickly claimed again when the emergency is past. Let us always keep it so.

The Dead Church

A SERMONETTE
By REV. W. K. RIGGS
Pastor, First Memorial Baptist Church

Text, Rev. 3:1—I know thy works, that thou hast a name that thou livest, and art dead.

THESE words regarding the church in Sardis give us a picture of many a church today. Once she was vigorous and flourishing, but now to a great extent she is powerless and dead.

I say this in no sense of criticism of the church as she exists in the mind of God, or as outlined in His word; there she is without spot or blemish. But it has happened today in many, many instances that she shares the fate of Sardis.

We see this in the ministry. Perhaps in all the history of the church she has never had such men in her pulpits, men of gigantic minds, the cream of the intellectual world, men of big hearts, men of great learning, men who have spared no pains in trying to acquire the profoundest learning. Yet we do not see the results we ought to see. I have read about some of the world's great preachers, Luther, Knox, Whitfield, Wesley, Moody and Spurgeon. I find that often in their preaching they were interrupted by the cries for mercy. Souls by the hundreds would be pricked by the arrow of conviction, and they would quake and fall, and cry for pardon. Where is this power today? Is it gone for ever?

Blind Musician's Song To Be Used in Sunday Service

A song written and published by Arthur Kellogg, Marion's blind musician, will be featured on the all-Ohio composers music program planned for the Sunday morning worship service at First Presbyterian church.

The song, "Teach Me the Right Way to Live," will be sung by Miss Virginia Young.

Written several years ago, it was inspired by a baptismal service Mr. Kellogg attended in which a small boy was baptized. After the service Mr. Kellogg returned home, composed the music and wrote the words.

Mrs. Hurry T. Williams, organist, has chosen two selections by James H. Rogers, formerly of Cleveland, a prologue and a psalm, "Toccata." For the offertory she will play "Forest Flowers" by Francesco DeLeoné of Kent.

The sermon will be delivered by the pastor, Rev. Howard L. Olevier. The service will start at 10:45 a. m.

Ohio's Two Youngest Congressmen Question Need for Draft in Peace

By KARL BECKLEY
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—One a Democrat, the other a Republican, Ohio's two youngest members of congress are questioning the need for conscription of manpower in peace time except as a last resort.

They are Representative Robert Jones, Lira Republican, and Representative Robert Secrest, Caldwell Democrat, both in their early 30's.

Secrest, serving his fourth term in the house, and Jones, a first-term, contend that the nation's youth should be given a chance to defend their country voluntarily before conscription is undertaken.

"While defense measures to preserve the American way of life have had my wholehearted support," said Jones, "universal conscription without trying to correct defects in the enlistment program is indefensible."

"Give young men a chance to decide the day they can enlist without destroying their plans for education and employment," said Secrest, who has introduced legislation proposing a trial period of enlistment. "That is the real American way."

"When the volunteer system fails them, and then only," Secrest added, "should congress conscript and regiment the youth of this free land."

Like Jones, Secrest declared that he had supported every defense measure in the determination that my country should not meet the fate of the eight nations who placed their reliance in the false promises of dictators.

Secrest contended that the need for man-power would be met if young men were permitted to enlist in the armed forces for one year at $30 a month.

"Today," he said, "in the army and marine corps, a boy will not be accepted as a volunteer unless he enlists for three years. Since July 1, 1939, the navy has not accepted a volunteer unless he

GOOD FISHING SPOTS IN MARION AREA LISTED

Heavy rains in the last several days have improved rather than damaged the chances of Ohio fishermen, according to a news report from the Ohio division of conservation and natural resources.

The division list reports that have been sent in on fishing conditions throughout Ohio and among the better spots to seek fish now are the state lakes at Mt. Gilead and the reservoir and Bucyrus.

The Mt. Gilead lakes are especially recommended to bass fishermen while at Bucyrus carp and catfish are reported biting on doughballs and worms.

Meanwhile the state conservation division reported Ohio streams and rivers at the lowest levels in months with resultant threat to loss of fish life. The Sandusky river is reported flowing 2.5 cubic feet per second near Bucyrus compared with a daily of 80 for the year. At Upper Sandusky the river's flow is now 3 cubic feet per second as compared with a daily average for the year of 253 cubic feet.

MEMORY OF THE MOON

by Jeanne Bowman

YESTERDAY, Constance leaves El Cerrillo determined to raise money for the dairy farm, somehow.

CHAPTER 14
Homecoming

CONSTANCE thought of Min's Tim's car as she drove her own coupe out of the city garage. She patted the steering wheel as though to encourage it to go on, into that meadow of early evening traffic. Queer she'd never before noticed the noise and confusion.

Ahead of her lay The Family, and explanations. She'd worry about both when she faced them. The first thing she saw, upon driving into the grounds, was the resplendent roadster which had belonged, after a fashion, to Don Cerrillo.

"Now what?" she wondered. Lamson's face lighted with joy, then clouded. His eyebrows arched, his eyes rolled toward the ceiling and his shoulders seemed intent upon following.

"Lammy, what on... my words, are we having a funeral?"

The foyer was a mass of flowers, great baskets of blossoms filled the air with a heady fragrance.

"Your bag is in your car, Miss Constance?" he inquired, and nodded to a trim new maid who was hurrying towards them.

"Of course, but—Lamson was gone and the maid was insisting that Constance follow her.

"Will you please attend to your duties," Constance said. "I'm quite capable of finding my way about this house."

The maid disappeared and Constance tipped down the hall. Flowers everywhere. Heavenly Day, they'd had the living room done over again. And now the dining room; three long tables, exquisitely appointed, a new tool-man hovering over one.

Constance nearly ran into Lamson as he hurried into the house with her bag. "A wedding?" she demanded.

Lamson lost control of his sitches. "Hill's a dinner to 'bout dinner 'all dinners," he moaned. "Listen," she grabbed him by the sleeve. "Gentlemen don't visit ladies in their boudoirs, but I'm not feeling like a lady just now, so come on."

Lamson followed her upstairs and when she had closed the door behind him, she handed him a cigarette. "Light up, Lammy, and start spilling. 'What's happened since I went away?'"

Lamson balanced gingerly on the edge of a chair. "C-Conchita," he began, and stopped short.

Constance controlled her smile. She hadn't heard him call her that since she returned from her first boarding school. That's all right. I like to hear you say Conchita. Now, go on—"

Instead he reached into a pocket and drew forth a clipping. Constance read it, slipper tapping.

CERRILLO TO SELL FAMOUS RANCHO, the heading advised her.

A second captain, elucidated—"Fabulous Price To Be Paid For El Cerrillo Rancho."

The clipping contained an interview with the Cerrillo family. Excerpts from it burned into the heart of the girl who read.

"—the days of the cattle barons are gone—"

"Out of the mouths of babes," quoted Constance.

"—find it advisable to dispose of extensive holdings as times have changed and resident managers can no longer be trusted to give honest attention to the interests of absentee owners—"

Constance read the eulogy on Cerrillo's past and present, through anger-dulled eyes. This then, was the thanks the Taylors were to receive? public condemnation!

"Credit!"

Fine slits of sapphire shone through the black fringe of Constance's eyes as she looked up. "What has happened since this appeared?" she demanded.

"Credit!" stated Lamson. "Such credit I never saw given a Cerrillo."

"Don't perjure your loyalty, Lamson. I understand," soothed Constance. "You want to tell me that since then they've gone the limit, and by they I mean the family."

"Now listen. I don't want to know I'm here I don't want to play Banquo at this evening's feast, but after that... well, just tell the maid that I'm... oh, say I'm a lady dick."

"Lammy!" her voice softened as she looked at the tired, old man. "How would you like to live on a ranch with plenty of horses—"

"Orses!" echoed Lamson soulfully. "Oh, Miss Conchita, my father was an 'orser," he sighed suddenly. "No, I couldn't go the promise I gave to your father."

Constance patted his arm. "We'll find a way," she promised. "Better go down now before anyone starts asking questions."

She locked the door behind him, then went to her desk, put the clipping to one side and drew note paper before her. Swiftly she wrote—

"I know the newspaper stories released by my family will reach you. Please let me apologize for them. They spoke in ignorance of true conditions. As Juliana says, never has El Cerrillo had as efficient management."

"As soon as possible I will restate the printed statements and give you credit for your fine work—"

Constance slipped the letter into her bag, after addressing it to Peter Teylor, Senior then turned out her light and went to the window to look down on the arriving guests.

Lights threw a luster on top hats and white shirtfronts, on white eyes of limousines streamed up the driveway, and red tail lights blinked as they wheeled down again.

Once a cab stopped to deposit a tall, squarely-built figure, and Constance leaned close to the pane to look down and whisper—

"Why... why, John!"

He'd stepped out of the back-ground, where he'd been pushed by the more vivid life at El Cerrillo, and for a moment it seemed to Constance that only with the sight of him had she actually returned from the ranch.

She turned away then to study her position. One thing, the Cerrillos' headlong fling into debt substantiated her claim that the fifty thousand dollars wouldn't last long, once it was in their hands.

"Oh," she thought bitterly. "I wish this were Old England where they had a debtors' prison. Maybe that would teach this family the lesson they must learn some day."

LABOR—PAST AND PRESENT
Editor of The Star: Labor's part in the making of history is important.

Kings and leaders used it to erect the monuments in their ways of conquest and defense.

Those who used slaves cared nothing for human lives, these workers were secured by conquest or by regimentation of their subjects.

Noah's project used labor, the tower of Babel did not spring out of the earth from a seed. A ship, the automobile or any of our modern conveniences or any of our modern conveniences need labor for production.

Government was not interested in the workers' welfare, betterment for labor amounted to little until the 17th century, then the English strengthened its forces and insisted that its rights and safety be assured.

Labor was a chattel of the ruler or the landowner, of hardly as much value as the cattle or the beast of burden. When his services were not needed he was left to shift for himself, the animals were kept in the barn and taken care of or turned in the field, his food provided for.

The laborer, be he mechanic or helper, ditch digger or worker in store or office, in overalls or of the white collar class, is the producer of things which create gain and economic security for a few, he gets the small portion for himself which he puts right back into the circle of industry and finance.

Of late years government has pretended to encourage labor in his insistence for recognition, but through that he faces the peril of regimentation; politics control him.

Labor and industry, one for the other in accord, makes a more perfect balance. Industry needs capable labor, capital supports both.

Government by proper law protects all politics through regimentation hinders initiative and weakens security.

Labor is recognized by our Constitution; he can claim what is his own but he must also consider the right of others.

YOUR HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.
Newsosis.

"I GAVE MY first prescription against reading the war news and political news today," said Dr. Adrian Gibbs, as he was locking up his office. "Told a fellow he was simply suffering from acute ingrowing power politics or news-rooms."

"I really found out about this disease from a study of my own case. I have a job to do which is important in the world if only from the standpoint that I keep myself and my family off relief. And that job has nothing to do with Hitler, nor Rumania, nor Stalin, nor the plans for the national defense, nor Willkie or Roosevelt, nor finding a source of aluminum or the manufacture of synthetic rubber. At least there's nothing I can do personally about these things right now."

"All in a Tension"

"This fellow is in the same fix. He has a tidy little job that is his own, that he is capable of doing, and that ought to receive a large part of his attention. He's been doing it all right until lately when he found himself getting fatigued and sleepless and all in a tension. So he began to take more exercise and make dates for golf games, dates he had to keep, that kept hanging over him and preying on his mind."

"Let's see," he would say to himself, "I've got to get through what I'm doing now so I can get out to the links at 2 p. m. and get through with my game in time to hear the 5 o'clock news broadcast, and then see the news-reel at 8:30 o'clock, and catch up with that book on the Persian oil situation before I go to bed."

"He had to get up in the morning so he could read all the pronouncements from the South American capitals and the editorials, and what the candidates said at their press conferences."

Overworked Nerves

"You see he hasn't enough nervous system to stand all that. He has a pretty sound nervous system, but like all human equipment it is limited and things had

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

D. M.—"Will you please tell me what causes mouth ulcers and how they can be prevented?" Is this condition due to lack of certain vitamins?

Answer—"Mouth ulcers" is a broad term. There are many different kinds of mouth ulcers caused by many different causes. I presume, however, that you mean what are commonly called "canker sores." I have never seen any proof of the theory that these are caused by lack of vitamins. Some people think they are due to allergy or hypersensitiveness, and I published a letter a little while ago from a dentist who believed they were due to lack of minerals and salts. They are notoriously likely to attack certain people and return frequently. My dentist correspondent claimed that he had been able to prevent their recurrence in sensitive individuals by this means.

M.—F.—"Can night blindness be cured? If so, please name the pills or whatever will help."

Answer—It is said that night blindness is due to lack of Vitamin A. This can be obtained in concentrated form or by the eating of carrots and corn.

Henry Wallace's Arguments

WHILE it has been evident for some time that Mr. Roosevelt hopes to short circuit Mr. Willkie by pretending to run for a third term against Mr. Hitler, the first official move in this direction is a shock.

Henry A. Wallace made the move Thursday night in his acceptance speech at Des Moines. Reduced to its simplest terms, his argument is that the United States cannot get rid of Mr. Roosevelt till Germany gets rid of Mr. Hitler. In other words, unless something unforeseen happens in Germany, a third term is only the beginning for the present occupant of the White House. There will be fourth, fifth and sixth terms, depending on how long it takes to get rid of Hitler. The United States, Candidate Wallace intimates, must play a waiting game.

Mr. Wallace goes even further than this. He apparently is in cahoots with Berlin, because he claims that Mr. Roosevelt's defeat would tickle Mr. Hitler pink. The Republicans he says, are appeasers fairly itching to get into power so they can make friends with the Nazis, which is a reminder that the two Republicans lately taken into Mr. Roosevelt's cabinet to run the war and navy departments weren't accused of any appeasing inclinations at the time. Mr. Wallace has made an extremely serious charge, implying treason. Every citizen, Democrat or Republican, has a right to expect that Mr. Wallace will immediately produce evidence to substantiate his indictment or apologize for making it. The implication that Republicans are potential traitors must not go unchallenged. Patriotism is not a partisan monopoly.

Perhaps there is nothing to gain by trying to dig down to a rational basis for Mr. Wallace's remarks. Mr. Willkie and Mr. McNary both have gone out of their way to speak well of him recently. He has been an earnest public servant. In the New Deal he has played the role of philosopher. But for purposes of the third term campaign he has stepped out of character to make ugly political speeches. The United States must keep Roosevelt because Hitler won't like it. It continues to be a fact that Hitler isn't running for president, but for the next two months, barring accidents, it's going to be hard to discover if by listening to stump speeches by third terms.

Make a Note

DISMISSAL of French colonial administrators on grounds of permitting rebellions inspired by Winston Churchill to break out in their jurisdictions looks like one of the tell-tale stories of 1940. It received little attention because it seems unimportant at the moment.

But it continues to be one of the hard facts of colonial reality that the job of preserving order must be performed by a highly mobile disciplinary organization based on sea power. France has lost its sea power. It likewise has lost its prestige, being reduced at present to a puppet state dependent on Germany.

Germany, despite its control of France, Belgium, and the Netherlands, cannot claim to control their colonial empires. Barring destruction of Great Britain's fleet, Germany cannot establish control of such colonial possessions because it lacks sea power. Even if it succeeded in invading Britain, it still would lack the indispensable implement for building a colonial empire, a large and powerful navy. Trouble in France's colonial empire is a story which will be heard from again.

700 Years of Destruction

CERTAINLY there has been no time since the explosive age began more suitable than this to pay tribute to its founder. Germans, aided by that other misused boon to mankind, the airplane, have managed to keep London, the world's largest city, ringing under a continuous rain of bombs for one entire night. The British, retaliating, have dropped bombs on Berlin for several hours at a time. Mines are blowing up in the world's vital water areas. Torpedoes and shells are sizzling on their lethal missions. Plants are being laid out here, there and everywhere for manufacture of bigger and better explosives. If by prearrangement all the explosive resources of militarists everywhere could be detonated at the same instant in the same place it would make a hole big enough to bury the human race in, which might be more scientific than leaving the remains scattered about.

To get back to the beginning of explosives, with a view to bowing in someone's direction for making it possible to blow homo sapiens into his component parts, Roger Bacon, some-thing called Friar Roger, seems to be the man. The history of explosives is long. Many men contributed their bit to the science of releasing energy suddenly, but most authorities agree it became a science when Friar Roger learned how to purify salt by crystallizing it from liquid solutions. He thus obtained pure nitre or potassium nitrate and was able to produce an artificial explosion. Because he was born about 1214 and died about 1292, the exact date of this momentous discovery is unknown, but it might have been about 1240, which would make the science of explosives about 700 years old. No one in England, which Friar Roger loved so well, will complain that the anniversary isn't being duly celebrated.

War vs. Labor

Labor Day Survey Points to One Hope for European Workers.

As Labor day approaches, John G. Winant, former governor of New Hampshire, director of the international labor office, and one of the recognized world authorities on labor problems, has given his own answer to the question of what war is doing to labor in Europe.

By JOHN G. WINANT
Director, International Labor Office

On September 1, 1939, Hitler in speaking to the Reichstag said:

"For six years now I have been working on the building up of German defenses. Over 20 milliards (20 billion marks) have been spent on the building up of those defense forces."

Measured under any reasonable exchange rate this would exceed the total gold reserves held in the United States. It was so large a part of the total national income of Germany as to materially lower the living and social standards of that nation or any nation attempting to meet them on a defensive armament basis. It explains the literalness of Goering's blunt demand of bullets instead of butter.

In a peace period only a government organized on force rather than on consent could have accepted the drastic deprivations compelled by this war spending policy. Under these conditions, there was established a combination of the punitive system of the middle ages harnessed to modern machine technology with the individual subject to the will of the dictator.

Something of these sinister changes are known to us through the news carried in the daily press and in broadcasts. But how many realize that the social gains that have been won through years of effort are being ruthlessly swept aside.

It is not only political leadership in conquered democracies that is being liquidated. Labor leaders meet the same fate. Trade unions and employers' organizations, as well as parliaments, have been destroyed. Collective bargaining in conquered territory has ceased to exist. Hour regulations have been completely broken down. Wage rates have been reduced. The cost of living has increased while the standard of living of the masses of working men and women has been progressively lowered.

IN ATTEMPTING to suggest something of what the war has done and is doing to labor in Europe, it is necessary to look back for a moment to the situation that existed before the war. While the aggressor nations were building their war machines, the democratic states worked to maintain the civil liberties of their people and to raise the workers' standard of living.

Much has been accomplished toward the realization of those objectives. A moderate but steady increase in national income and in the volume of wages, a more equal distribution of purchasing power due to social security and public welfare measures—all bear witness to the preoccupations of the democratic countries of continental Europe until war forced change. Until then, little by little, through untiring effort, those countries had erected a social structure protecting the decency and dignity of man.

This structure included the limitation of hours of work in industry and commerce, the protection of working women and children, the protection of the health and safety of workers, compensation for industrial accidents and occupational diseases, a system of old age pensions and pensions for widows and orphans of deceased workers, the arbitration of industrial disputes and the determination of labor conditions by collective bargaining.

Membership in the International Federation of Trade Unions, the largest international organization of workers, numbered in 1939, twenty-one million.

This situation has been completely changed by the invader. There has been complete destruction of the trade union movement in Germany, Austria, and Czechoslovakia and in the conquered democracies. All that the free trade union movement has stood for—the right of being heard, the right of consultation, the right to negotiate—has been abolished. These rights were consecrated by the constitution of the international labor organization established in 1919 to promote social justice.

IN GREAT BRITAIN, the last bulwark of democracy in the old world, the organized workers have accepted freely, spontaneously, and in common accord with their employers, compulsory arbitration and the outlawing of strikes and lockouts for the duration of the war. Their action is based on their knowledge that today with them all things depend on the strength of national defense. British union workers have themselves recommended the adoption of the emergency powers defense act which grants the most drastic authority a free people has ever conferred upon its government.

This authority includes power to control all persons and all property, to conscript labor and regulate conditions of employment, to control banking and finance and to impose an excess profits tax of 100 per cent. The secretary of labor and national service has been charged with the creation of a new arbitration board to adjudicate disputes on working conditions.

On the outcome of the present struggle between Great Britain and Nazi Germany depends the future of labor and the labor movement in Europe. If Britain falls, the whole of western and central Europe will pass under a totalitarian rule that will obliterate the gains made in one hundred and fifty years of struggle and sacrifice, and place the American worker in the front line of defense.

Harness Racers

Trotters and Pacers Coming to New York, Which Reminds Us of Champ Named Cresceus.

By DAMON RUNYON

THE time Cresceus came to our old town of Pueblo was a big occasion. We remember that all the folks were quite apt to go to Cresceus was a champion of champions those days in a field in which nearly everybody was interested.

Cresceus was the fastest trotting horse of the era. He came to Pueblo to trot an exhibition mile at the fairgrounds. His name had succeeded that of Maud S. as a synonym of tremendous speed. Yet we are not sure that we are spelling it correctly here, because we are unable to check on it in record books at hand.

His records, once considered phenomenal, seem to have been nudged out of the books, such has been the progress in speed of the harness horse, due, we presume, to improved conditions and perhaps also to improvement of the racing breed for which horse producers claim they are ever striving. Greyhound is the modern king of the harness, holder of all kinds of trotting speed records and still active.

Well, we have seen Greyhound, too. Saw him the day he won the Hambletonian at Goshen in '35 and several times since. He may be faster, but he is not as pretty as the Cresceus of boyhood memory. We remember we thought Cresceus was the prettiest thing we had ever seen. But then he was the first champion of any kind we ever viewed.

ALL the hot sports back in our home town of Pueblo had harness horses, trotters or pacers, in those days. They used to get out in light buggies or sulkies and brush against one another on the roads. Our greatest ambition then was to own a fast horse and a spidery speed cart, preferably with a seat wide enough to accommodate a gal as witness to our skill in handling a fiery steed in furious bursts of speed. We wanted one fast enough to beat Johnny Thatcher's Sleepy.

In later years we discovered the runners. After that our interest in harness horses waned, reviving to some extent of late years with the Hambletonian, greatest American horse carnival in existence, but only the Kentucky Derby. A renewed, though still somewhat vague acquaintance with the harness horses of today, probably accounts for our attention to the experiment of harness horse racing at night on the Roosevelt Speedway on Long Island.

This brings harness horses closest to the big town that they have been since the days when they raced at Empire City up in Yonkers. We understand the new enterprise has at least the sentimental support of many rich folks who have gone in for harness horse breeding and racing the past few years. It is to be conducted with all the mechanical improvements that surround the racing of the gallopers, including the pari-mutuels and a starting gate that eliminates the scoring which used to drive us crazy.

WE see no reason why it should not go all right. We have never seen racing at night, except those last races at Tropical Park and Hialeah down in Dade county, Fla., when the dusk settles over the scene, and we never really see them, not having the eyesight of an owl. We think we might enjoy them if the courses were properly lighted as we understand Roosevelt field is to be. It probably makes no difference in the harness whether they race by day or night, and to the faces troubled with insomnia will most likely fancy the nocturnal program.

A half-mile track has been set up, and every heat will be a race. The longest race will be a mile. It is a curious thing that harness horse enthusiasts are making their races shorter as the galloper crowd is trying to make theirs longer. Several new stakes are being set up by the latter over distances of ground much greater than American running horses have been called on to cover in years.

PROBABLY they will be won at first by platers that cannot run fast but can stagger far. The tendency to breed for sprinting speed has greatly reduced the staying power of the American running horse, and they will have to start breeding on different lines to get sickers. Yet the runners in this country once raced up to four miles like breaking sticks, while trotters and pacers could go all day.

But then we have heard it said that Americans themselves are cutting down on human endurance in favor of speed.

From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO.

It was Sunday, Aug. 31, 1930. Christian Frederick Kinsler, 95, Civil war veteran, died at the home of his son, Rudolph Kinsler, near Marion.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward G. Reiff of Detroit were guests of honor at a dinner given by Mr. and Mrs. Henry F. Reiff of the Marion-Delaware road.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Johnson entertained at dinner at their home on Monroe street in honor of Mrs. Elizabeth West of Akron and Clarence Johnson of Marysville.

A group of friends and relatives called on W. T. Mack at his home on the Richmond pike in observance of his birthday anniversary.

Marion churches joined with the Marion Central Labor union in holding a union service in observance of the Sunday preceding Labor Day. The service was held at Epworth M. E. church with Rev. M. L. Buckley giving the sermon.

TWENTY YEARS AGO.

It was Tuesday, Aug. 31, 1920. Rev. Albion H. Ross and son Albion Jr. of Gallipolis were visiting friends in Marion. Rev. Ross was formerly rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church here.

Arrangements were completed for an exhibition game to be played by the Chicago National League team against the Marion team at Lincoln park on Thursday.

Sons were born to Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Bash of Cass avenue and Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Siegfried of Byhalia. Mr. Siegfried was a former superintendent of the Waldo school.

Mrs. Roy Broadwood was hostess to the W. A. W. club at her home on Edgewood drive.

A program of reclamation and development for the western section of the United States was the principal theme of a talk given by Senator Harding to a delegation of governors, former governors and candidates for governor visiting the Harding front porch.

"My vision of the future pictures it as a wonderland," Senator Harding said, "whose streams are harnessed to great electrical units from which flows the power to drive railway trains, to operate industries, to carry on the public utilities of cities, to smelt the metals and to energize the activities of a teeming population."

Guests for "governors' day" began arriving early in the morning and during the hours preceding the speech of Mr. Harding visited with one another on the nominee's front porch and enjoyed automobile rides about the city.

Among those present were Gov. Lowden of Illinois, Gov. Strout of Pennsylvania, Gov. Stephens of California, Gov. Townsend of Delaware, Gov. Preus of Minnesota, Gov. Goodrich of Indiana, Gov. Campbell of Arizona, Gov. McKelvie of Nebraska, former Gov. Spry of Utah, Arthur M. Hyde, candidate for governor of Missouri, William Lloyd, candidate for lieutenant governor of Missouri, Lieut. Gov. Clarence J. Brown of Ohio, the famous "Uncle Joe" Cannon, congressman from Illinois and J. Adam Bede, former congressman from Minnesota.

A program was played by Baker's band preceding the speaking which began shortly after 11 a. m. George B. Christian Jr., secretary to President Harding, introduced Gov. Lowden of Illinois as spokesman for the visiting executives. Mr. Lowden told the presidential nominee that the visitors admired the dignity and self-restraint with which he discussed public questions. "We not only admire your public utterances," he said, "but we admire your silence and applaud the fact that you do not indulge in reckless charges against the opposition."

News Behind the News

Roosevelt Believed on Verge of Taking to Stump for Own Campaign.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—The master Democratic political minds are not sure Mr. Roosevelt can proceed with the type of campaign he started. His strategy is to win without a contest. It worked well in the primary campaign. He was in sufficient control of the party organization to ease himself in coolly without a struggle.

So far his efforts to prevent a contest in the national race have not been satisfactory. He simply has no one in his entourage capable of carrying the campaign burden in such a way that he can continue the appearance of sideline aloofness.

The strategy of the Ickes address was to build him up beyond criticism, but that failed. In the next move by the vice-presidential candidate, Mr. Wallace, it was made to appear Mr. Roosevelt is running against Hitler, but that seemed a little far-fetched also.

The President is very likely to be out of the stump batting for himself within a few weeks.

Tax Bill

No one seems quite sure what the final form of the tax bill specifically means. This includes authors of the measure on the house ways and means committee. They were obviously not clear or in agreement as to how the complex measure would work out. One frankly said: "This is the most complicated bill enacted in congress in my 20 years of experience here."

If the authors cannot understand it the ordinary members of the house and senate have no chance, but it will be pushed through anyway.

Already a quiet cloakroom campaign is being promoted on the excuse that congress will clarify it next January before anyone pays any taxes under it.

Farley's Vote

No one knows how the Democratic leader Jim Farley is going to vote in November. He has not said whether he will scratch the ticket. But all his friends now know his wife and brother intend to vote for Wendell Willkie, the Republican.

It is almost certain the former chairman of the Democratic national committee will not permit himself to be drawn into the third term drive. His withdrawal from the cabinet was effected to avoid embarrassing situations.

Garner's Aloofness

The published letter from Tammany Congressman Kennedy is not the only one Mr. Garner has received urging him to return to vice-presidential chair. Other more forceful inside pressure has been exerted by some of the Democratic politicians.

A hundred to one is being offered, with no takers, that the sage of Uvalde will continue to cast his lines for trout in home creeks.

His return would save political appearances, but serve no legislative purpose. Clearance of the conscription bill will open the way for congressional adjournment in a few weeks. Few important issues remain. No tie votes are in prospect in the senate (the vice president functions legislatively only in case of tie).

Willkie Campaign

A dozen or more leading Republican congressmen slipped up to New York for a conference with Mr. Willkie, and back, unnoticed. They were amazed at the personal type of campaign the nominee is running. Apparently he makes all decisions. All unsolved problems of organization as well as policy are pushed up to him. As a result he has more work than he can do.

Conscription Not New

The congressional debate has made it appear that peacetime conscription for training is a new dictatorial idea, but the war department archives contain a record of just such a law passed May 8, 1792.

It was twice upheld by the United States supreme court after the War of 1812, but remained moribund because administration was under the governors of states.

Conceived by Von Steuben and approved by Washington, it called on every able-bodied male between 18 and 45 to enroll in the militia and "provide himself with a good musket or firelock, a sufficient bayonet and belt, two spare flints, and a knapsack, a pouch, with a box therein to contain not less than 24 cartridges," and other accoutrements.

Today and Tomorrow

Amendment to Conscription Bill Seen As Logical Step for Government.

By WALTER LIPPMANN

THE Russell-Overton amendment in the conscription bill was adopted by a vote of 69 to 18. It provides that in case the army or the navy are unable to reach an agreement with a private contractor for the manufacture of things they need, the secretary of war or the secretary of the navy may commandeer the plant, leaving the question of compensation to be determined by condemnation proceedings in a court of law.

The amendment was introduced in the very last stages of the senate debate, and it may be that after closer scrutiny in the house and in committee it will be found desirable to improve it in detail. But to describe it as stupendous, staggering and revolutionary, as setting up "potential dictatorship" as a proposal to "socialize and socialize our system of free enterprise" is not, it seems to me, a considered and illuminating contribution to the debate.

For the power of government to acquire private property for public purposes through condemnation proceedings is as old as the common law; it is a power exercised somewhere in the United States every day in the week in order to build highways, school houses, parks and other public facilities. In war and in peace the power is inherent in all government and certainly it is available where the national defense is the public purpose for which private property is condemned. All that the Russell-Overton amendment does, if I read it correctly, is to make the property available at once, letting the courts fix the compensation at their leisure, whereas usually there is a long law suit before the property can be used. What is so staggering about that?

Power To Commandeer

Moreover, the power to commandeer in the interest of national defense has long been a part of the settled policy of the United States under the national defense act: over a period of more than 20 years congress has repeatedly affirmed the principle as being necessary and inherent in time of national emergency. Surely it will not be maintained now by Mr. Willkie that no national emergency exists when he himself advocates conscription, or that the senate does not think there is a national emergency when it adopts the conscription of men by a vote of 58 to 31 and re-affirms the power to condemn property by a vote of 69 to 18.

Nor is there any substance to the contention that this power is likely to socialize and sovietize our system of free enterprise. On the contrary it will help to preserve it. For the fact of the situation is that the great majority of business men in the country are quite ready to work for the national defense, renouncing any ambition for big profits asking only reasonable protection against the risks. But in every community there are some men who put personal profit first, who seek private advantage for themselves while their competitors are doing public work.

These recalcitrants have to be brought into line—not only because the government needs their services, but as a protection to patriotic business men, and because they cannot be allowed to set a demoralizing example to the rest of the community. The fact that the government has the power to commandeer will bring them into line, for the most part without the necessity of exercising the power. And in certain cases the power has to be exercised, it will be the courts and not the President or the secretaries of TAOS, N. M.—Giant combines whirl an efficient harvest song in big wheat fields of the great plains but in New Mexico this fall, as for 800 years, the "little people" of the deep mountain country still depend upon goats to do their thrashing.

And Pedro, and their hijos (sons) live the placid existence which was old 200, even 300, years ago. In Las Trampas, Truchas, Penasco and a dozen little villages just like them—the "little people" are a link with Spanish conquistadors of the 16th century.

At Las Trampas the mail comes by buggy every two days.

There, on Good Fridays, the Penitentes whip themselves with yucca and haul the ritualistic death cart in the procession of the flagellant brothers.

In the Chimayo country, and elsewhere, goats still are regarded as the ideal threshers.

On hard-packed ground the herd is driven around and around, threshing the wheat under sharp hooves as it is carried in from the field.

Juan and his friends shovel up the chaff and wheat and dirt and throw it into the air to blow away the chaff. The grain is carried by the women to the river banks, where it is washed and spread to dry on clean white sheets.

The valleys and fertile lands are intensely farmed, and occasional cash is picked up by cutting and marketing "vegans" which form the roof poles of a proper adobe house.

Officials of Carson National Forest, which embraces the northern mountains, estimate the average yearly income of these native people at less than $200.

Deadly Week-Ends

CHICAGO—Old Man Accident lets go with his Sunday punch during the week-ends and pedestrians and motorists alike crumple under the lethal wallop in terrifying numbers.

Three-eighths of the fatal traffic accidents and a third of the non-fatal injury accidents in cities occur on Saturdays and Sundays, according to the 1940 edition of Accident Facts, the National Safety Council's statistical yearbook.

In rural areas it's even worse. Forty-four per cent of the week's rural death total and 45 per cent of the non-fatal injury total of traffic accidents occur during the week-end.

TWO HELD IN BEATING, ROBBING OF FARMERS

Shoppers in Wyandot Co. Jail; Charge To Be Filed.

Sheriff Paul Frey reported to Sheriff Paul Frey this morning that the two men were arrested several days ago and that they have been identified by the three victims. William H. Rank, 33, of near Greenville, Huron county, and David L. Rank, 37, of near Greenville, Huron county, were arrested by Sheriff Frey and Deputy Frey on charges of assault and battery. The charges will be filed against the brothers late this afternoon in connection with the Stearns case.

Mr. Rank reported to Sheriff Frey that the two brothers, who had been at his home several times, had been beating and robbing him. Rank said he was beaten and robbed last Monday night and after closing the door he was beaten over his head, and a blanket over his head and robbed him of $5.

Deputy Frey said he understood the two brothers had been beating and robbing him. Rank said he was beaten and robbed last Monday night and after closing the door he was beaten over his head, and a blanket over his head and robbed him of $5.

Authorities said damage to establishments which might be regarded as military objectives was extremely small.

A number of bombs fell in the southeast section of the city causing large fires. This was the section bombed Thursday morning, when 10 civilians were killed and 28 injured.

Barrage Greets RAF

The raiders were greeted with an ear-splitting barrage from hundreds of anti-aircraft guns as they roared over the capital in several groups. Tracer bullets cut arcs through the darkness and searchlights stabbed the sky.

Authorities said the nearest thing to a military objective struck by the bombers was the Siemens-Schuckert electrical works in west Berlin.

One high explosive bomb hit the corner of a one-story brick building in which lumber was being seasoned.

In another part of the big factory two incendiary bombs started fires in a yard where lumber was stored in scattered piles.

The largest fire started by the bombs broke out in Ritter street in the southeast, only a few blocks from the spot where the most serious damage occurred in last Thursday's raid.

There explosive and incendiary bombs smashed into the roof of a building occupied by small apartments, starting a blaze which burned for several hours and destroyed the homes of several dozen families.

Mr. H. Has Calmed Balkan Fuss—But For How Long?

By DEWITT MacKENZIE

The point of immediate importance arising from the Axis-imposed settlement of the Rumanian-Hungarian territorial quarrel is that Herr Hitler probably (though not certainly) has averted for the moment a Balkan upheaval which would have been a calamity for his blitzkrieg against England—already running far behind schedule.

True, the Balkan pot was boiling angrily this morning. Not only were tempers running high in Rumania and Hungary (especially the former, who lost great treasure to her neighbor), but Greece was cleaning guns because of fears of Italian aggression.

Russia On Move

The Russian bear was stalking the western boundaries of his preserves, which is a manner of describing mysterious maneuvers. He was moving circumspectly, after his fashion, but with rumblings in his throat which might denote either dissatisfaction or pleasant anticipation.

Still, despite the tension the mailed fist of the Axis powers ought to be able to keep the lid hammered down for the time being. If and when their pressure is lessened, watch out.

There are several other features of this German-Italian move which are well worth consideration.

(1). The arbitrary decision of Messrs. Hitler and Mussolini, whereby something like half of the fine province of Transylvania is ripped off from Rumania and returned to Hungary which lost it in the World war, is good only so long as Hitler is head man in Europe. It's length of life depends on whether he wins the battle of Britain.

The manner in which Hitler handled this situation is an excellent illustration of the rule which observers generally expect him to impose on his "new Europe" if he does win the war.

(2). Maintenance of "peace" in the Balkans is, as indicated, vital to the Axis assault on Britain. But this "peace" cannot give to Hitler the supplies which he so sorely needs from this productive region.

The crops of the Danubian basin, one of the world's great granaries, are said by experts to be the poorest in ten years. Further, agricultural production has fallen off heavily because all the Balkan states are standing at arms.

The peace which the Nazi chieftain has conjured out of his fist can't alter those facts, though obviously it does ameliorate the situation.

eral hundred German planes, flying with the sun at their backs, crossed the south coast at a height of 20,000 feet during the morning, apparently heading for London.

Anti-aircraft batteries and British fighter planes met them.

This morning's raid came as thousands of Londoners were on their way to work. Trains maintained uninterrupted service and street traffic was undiminished.

Estimates Differ

Newspaper estimates of the number of German planes engaged in the daylight and night attacks which ranged from 100 to 200. The News-Chronicle, the largest London paper, estimated that 150 German planes were engaged in the daylight raid and 50 in the night raid.

Nation In Mourning

All Bucharest theaters, movies and night clubs were ordered closed for an indefinite period of national mourning, and music was forbidden in restaurants.

Unreconciled Rumanians formed "defense corps" in parts of Transylvania, and from the province capital, Cluj, came a petition bearing thousands of signatures lauding Julius Maniu, Rumania's peasant party leader, for his opposition to the cession and calling "traitors" those who agreed to it.

Despite the concern in Bucharest over the danger of disturbances among the mixed populations of Transylvania before the transfer of authority is completed, there were no reports of any incidents.

More than 1,000,000 Rumanian peasants, however, were declared still to be unaware of the swift drama of power politics which decreed their return to Hungarian rule after 22 years in greater Rumania.

Vast Movie Chain Says U. S. Charges False.

By The Associated Press

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 31.—Schine Chain Theaters, Inc., operating nearly 200 movie houses in New York, Ohio, Kentucky, Delaware and Maryland, denied in federal court yesterday that it engaged in interstate commerce or that it attempted to coerce independent theater owners to monopolize the distribution of first-class films.

The federal government is seeking an injunction to prohibit Schine from obtaining more movie theaters and is asking the court to reorganize the Schine chain into smaller companies. The government contends that the Schine chain now consists of six operating companies, Inc., and Universal Film Exchange, also denied government charges of violating the Sherman anti-trust act. They said they did not grant the Schine chain preference of films over other movie houses.

PROSPECT MAN ARRESTED FOR DISORDERLY CONDUCT

Barricaded Self in Home, Marshal Reports.

Disorderly conduct charges have been filed in the mayor's court at Prospect against Ralph Hawk, about 35, of Prospect, who allegedly caused a disturbance at his home last night, according to Mayor Ed Tetter. The marshal, who called other authorities for aid, reported Hawk engaged in a "family quarrel" and struck Wesley Ganti, about 50, who had accompanied him home about 11:30 last night.

Hawk's wife reported the affair to officials, and filed the charge against her husband, the marshal reported. When officers arrived at the home he had barricaded himself in a room with his four children and threatened, "Don't come in or I'll shoot." The marshal related that the officers decided to wait until later to take Hawk into custody.

Deputy Sheriff W. H. Willis and Corporal W. D. Mariner, Patrolmen W. D. Bush and David Welsch, of the Marion sub-station of the highway patrol, went to Prospect in answer to Marshal Tetter's call for assistance.

ONLY the immediate families were present for the marriage of Miss Mildred Wetterauer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. G. Wetterauer of 929 Mt. Vernon avenue, to Alvin G. Brooks of Chicago, which took place this morning at 11:30 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents. The single ring ceremony was read by Rev. D. N. Kelly, pastor of Wesley Methodist church.

Miss Elizabeth Line of Gallon, a sorority sister of the bride was her maid of honor and only attendant, and Donald G. Wetterauer of Chicago, brother of the bride, served as best man for Mr. Brooks who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Brooks of Green Lake, Wis.

For the ceremony the couple stood in front of the fireplace in the living room which was transformed into an improvised altar.

A screen of huckleberry foliage dotted with white flowers and broadened white satin formed the background, and centering the mantel was a white flower arrangement of Maid of Orleans gladioli, Creole lilies, asters and chrysanthemums. The mantel lights were concealed with greenery and white flowers, and on each side was a tall urn filled with white flowers.

Mr. Wetterauer gave his daughter in marriage. Her gown was fashioned of pearl white jersey cut along softly draped Grecian lines. The draped bodice had a V-neckline and the full, leg of mutton sleeves tapered to a point over the hands. The skirt was very full and fell from a wide draped girde into soft folds which graduated into a long, graceful train. Her English half-veil of sheer bridal illusion was held with a Grecian coronet of tiny seed pearls, and she carried a Colonial style bouquet in cascade effect, fashioned of white asters, gardenias, gladioli and euphorbia interspersed with white chiffon tufts and showered with white pompon chrysanthemums.

Miss Line was costumed in white-net with a jacket of white silk lace accented with a flared collar. Her headpiece was fashioned of white pompon chrysanthemums and her colonial bouquet of white gladioli, white pompon chrysanthemums, asters and euphorbia was centered with old

JUST THINGS
By EDNA S. DUTTON
Won't Work
THE NEW parking meters make pretty good story timber these days, and we're betting you'll have to go some to top this one. Two women strolled out of a store on the main drag directly in front of one of the shiny new meters. One, evidently seized with an inspiration, bade her companion to "wait a minute" fumbled in her purse, marched up to the meter, deposited a coin in the slot and waited. "Twon't work," she called disgustedly to her companion, whereupon the two shook the standard mightily. "When it stood in that doorway it worked and a card always came out," the depositor lamented as she joined her companion and marched up the street.

Good Reason
THE conversation got around to weddings at a gathering of a group of business and professional gals recently and as per usual they wondered why so many brides chose June for the big matrimonial leap. Some were "fer" and some "agin" the idea. One girl crossed it off because there was too much competition. But the pointer for the day went to the gal who is a school teacher from choice. She came forth with "I'm going to get married in September and on the first day of school; then I'm going to walk around in front of all the schools; I've started to school each September since I was six years old." And where, we're asking you, could you find a better reason.

Human Behavior—?
THERE ARE those who think we act at times like our little friends the monkeys, and then for some folks we have such nice pet names as rats, snakes and what have you. We think we can see some very human traits in our canine companions. We know one little fellow, (we haven't seen him lately and that's what made us think of all this chatter) who lets you know just how he feels about everything. He is of the fox terrier family and used to guard his master's car along the postoffice curb early in the morning. He was the love that beats you to the draw. He never even waited to see if we were friend or foe, he was there waiting and judging from the tilt in his ears and the tone of his bark, he was surely telling us. He didn't like us and that was that. We'll bet though, if he liked you, he'd go all the way with you. Recently, in almost the same spot we encountered another dog doing guard duty in his master's car. He had long, silky ears, velvet eyes and seemed more than anxious to make friends so early in the morning. In fact we think he would have nudged over and shared his seat with us had we even so much as hinted. So there we are. At that though, wouldn't it be terrible if we were all alike.

Nichols-Ruffing Nuptials Read at St. Mary Church

THE marriage of Miss Geneva Nichols, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Nichols of Los Angeles, Calif., and Bernard J. Ruffing of Dallas, Texas, son of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Ruffing of 221 North Prospect street, was solemnized this morning at 9 o'clock in St. Mary Catholic church. The pastor, Rev. Father William J. Spickerman, read the double ring ceremony and was the celebrant of the nuptial high mass.

Miss Florence Ruffing, sister of the bridegroom, was Miss Nichols' bridesmaid and only attendant, and Edward Ruffing of Bismark, O., cousin of Mr. Ruffing, served as best man.

The bride wore a floor-length gown of white chiffon fashioned on simple lines, with a full skirt and shirred bodice. Her veil was fingertip-length and was caught to her hair with a tangle of pearls. Her jewelry was a single strand of pearls belonging to her mother and she carried a mother-of-pearl prayer book marked with ribbon showered with white pompons.

Miss Ruffing's gown of Alice Blue georgette was fashioned on lines similar to the bride's gown. Her open crown turban matched the material in her gown and was banded across the back with tiny white and deep pink pompons and she carried a round bouquet of pompons in the same colors. The bride's gift to her attendant was a gold vanity case.

The bridegroom's mother wore a costume of Copenhagen blue with harmonizing accessories. Following the ceremony there was a breakfast at Mrs. Little's room. The table held a wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom and at each side were flowers and greenery. This evening the bridegroom's parents will be hosts at a dinner at their home. Decorations will be a large wedding cake and fall flowers. Guests will include members of the wedding party, Rev. Father William J. Spickerman, assistant pastor of St. Mary church, Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Ruffing and son John of Chicago, Miss Marguerite Ruffing of Dallas, Tex., James S. Nichols of Los Angeles, Calif., and Miss Cecelia Galer, who also were guests at the breakfast.

Mr. Ruffing and his bride will leave Sunday on a trip through Kentucky and Tennessee, and from there will go to Dallas where they will be at home after Sept. 8 at 2011 Bennett street. For traveling the bride has chosen a navy blue and white ensemble with which she will wear a matching navy coat and black accessories.

The new Mrs. Ruffing was graduated from the Gainesville, Texas High school and Gainesville Junior college. Mr. Ruffing is an alumnus of St. Mary Parochial school and is associated with the Kraft Cheese Co. with headquarters at Dallas.

The Chief Refuses To Talk To Veritzen But Requests Made To Invite Him To Join the Farmhouse Militia.

"YES, I can imagine he would be," my father said, and then was silent for the space of several seconds.

I knew better than to interrupt his musing, but I had an uneasy, albeit a slightly misanthropic vision of Philip Veritzen—who always has his corners cushioned—fuming at the other end of the telephone.

But when my father finally did speak, I forgot everything in the surprise of his words. "I have been expecting this," he said. "I am glad it came just at this time. It just fits in."

Judicially I made no comment, for I knew from his manner that he expected none and when he spoke again, I had my answer for Philip Veritzen.

"Do not give him my private number," he said, spacing his words with slow deliberation. "Tell him there are reasons why I do not wish to talk to anyone over the telephone just now."

He stopped and shot a quizzical look at me. "I can understand that you might feel a certain reticence to deliver a message like that to the great man, who, as your husband would say, will undoubtedly be 'burned to a cinder' by it . . ."

I felt my face flushing with chagrin that my involuntary reaction to his ultimatum had been so palpable, but he apparently did not see my confusion, and went on.

"Ask him to come to the farm as soon as he possibly can get here," he said, "and to come with the idea that he and Otto may stay here for two or three days."

Despite my resolution, my composure was not proof against this announcement, and I suppose my tell-tale face reflected my housewifely dismay at the prospect, for my father smiled suddenly.

"You need have no worry over the housing problem," he said with what he evidently believed to be complete reassurance. "They will come as members of our 'domestic militia,' and they will take camp 'tick,' the same as the rest of us. This may be hard on that super-sybarite, Philip Veritzen, but he has no choice. He virtually has asked for this, and I shall give it to him."

Short on Willkie And "Boom Town" at Palace

Four Stars in Feature Picture Now Showing: "Dark Command" To Start Thursday.

Clark Gable, Spencer Tracy, Claudette Colbert, Hedy Lamarr and Wendell Willkie. A formidable line-up of talent, and all at the Palace on one bill, now showing through Tuesday, with continuous shows Monday, starting at 1 p. m.

Willkie shines his way through an "Information Please" short, matching wits with such human encyclopedias as Franklin P. Adams and Oscar Levant and coming across with the correct answers 80 per cent of the time.

"Boom Town," where one finds the other four stars, cost lots of money, took plenty of time to make and covers about every situation that could arise in one picture. The supporting cast includes Frank Morgan, Lionel Atwill, Chill Willis, Marion Martin and Minna Gombell.

"Boom Town" Story

The story concerns two pals, Gable and Tracy, who become enemies because of two women, Miss Colbert and Miss Lamarr. Gable marries Miss Colbert, Tracy's sweetheart, but their friendship doesn't break until Gable begins to take too much interest in the lovely Miss Lamarr. The men become bitter, but each is willing, because of old times, to help the other. Eventually both reach the top. Tracy finally breaks with Gable to drive him from Miss Lamarr to his wife. It is done dramatically. Baby Quintanilla steals several scenes.

"Golden Fleece," the Wednesday picture, is a comedy about a timid clerk who becomes involved with a gang of racketeers. Lew Ayres, the clerk, accidentally sells a big insurance policy to a big time racketeer who turns fugitive and is likely to be "bumped off" at any moment, at the expense of the insurance company. To save his job Ayres sets out to track down the racketeer and becomes involved with the gang Rita Johnson has the leading feminine role opposite Ayres.

Historical Film

The story of William Cantrell, famous guerilla chieftain whose band of cut-throats ravaged the border country of Kansas and Missouri in a preliminary to the Civil war, is told in the Thursday-Friday picture, "Dark Command."

Claire Trevor, John Wayne and Walter Pidgeon are starred. The romantic angle shows Miss Trevor torn between love for Wayne and the irresistible appeal of Pidgeon, who plays Cantrell.

Action Films

"They Drive By Night" To Be Followed by "The Return of Frank James."

Two action-cramped films have been booked for the Ohio, "They Drive By Night," now playing through Thursday, and "The Return of Frank James," starting next Friday.

The theater will observe the regular week-day schedule of two matinee and two night shows on Labor day.

"They Ride By Night," starring George Raft, Ann Sheridan, Humphrey Bogart and Ida Lupino opened yesterday. Laughs, excitement and romance combine in this story of drivers of cross-country trucks.

It is largely concerned with the love affair between Raft and Miss Sheridan. The latter portrays a waitress in a roadside cafe and Raft plays a hard-working young man who staunchly believes in his own future.

Their romance hits a snag when Raft's boss' wife, Miss Lupino, falls for Raft and through bitter frustration over his continued coldness towards her, accuses him of complicity in her husband's murder. Bogart, has the role of Raft's brother, and Alan Hale is cast as Miss Lupino's husband, whose death she plots.

The supporting cast includes such performers as Roscoe Karns, Gail Page, John Litel and Joyce Compton.

"The Return of Frank James" is filmed in technicolor and in its early sequences flashes back to the scene in "Jesse James" in which Tyrone Power is killed.

From there the picture picks up the story of his brother Frank's fight to avenge the shot-in-the-back murder of Jesse. Fonda continues in the role of Frank. Gene Tierney, Jackie Cooper and Henry Hull head the cast of featured players.

Story of Marines on Double Bill at State Theater

Richard Dix, Chester Morris and Lucille Ball are the featured players in "The Marines Fly High," booked for Sunday and Monday at the State. The story is set against a background of Central America, opening in a military cantonment where a group of U. S. marine officers and non-commissioned officers are stationed to organize and train a native army to halt a reign of terror conducted by a mysterious and notorious bandit chieftain and his followers.

Also on the Sunday-Monday program, which will be shown continuously on Labor day, starting at 1 p. m., will be "The Fatal Hour," presenting Boris Karloff as a Chinese sleuth.

Melvyn Douglas and Louise Platt in "Tell No Tales," and "Charlie McCarthy, Detective," starring Charlie and Edgar Bergen, will be shown Tuesday and Wednesday.

The last three days of the week the program will be "The Cowboy and the Lady," starring Gary Cooper and Merle Oberon, and "The Day the Bookies Wept," a Joe Penner comedy.

Developments in Building Methods To Have Effect on Houses of Future

Amely at work at present in the United States is an evolution in residential construction which will have a profound effect on building methods and costs, according to builders.

Present strength of this evolutionary process is indicated by the fact that around 500 different methods for building houses (not to mention building materials) have been developed in the past few years. Some of these methods are practical; others are not. Some are improvements over old methods and offer possibilities for cost reductions.

Another, this constant search for new methods and materials will have a profound effect on building methods and building costs, it is said. As the new methods and materials demonstrate their value they may be gradually absorbed into common practice, and many may ultimately result in better houses at lower cost.

FHA Offers Check
Special methods of construction are being investigated individually by FHA engineers, officials explain, after the sponsors submit drawings, specifications, test data, and other necessary information.

First, these engineers analyze the structural design and specific use of materials from the standpoint of strength and rigidity, the adequacy with which exposed joints are protected, and the method of anchorage and tying together of the parts as a structural unit. They also evaluate the general durability, resistance to normal use, resistance to the elements, and protection against corrosion, shrinkage, and other possible deteriorating influences and factors which may bear on annual maintenance costs. Consideration also is given to the thermal conductivity and insulation of walls, ceilings, and roofs.

fire resistance, and elements which affect safety, comfort, and operating costs.

Prefer to Watch Building

Second, the engineers investigate at least one house built by the proposed method, done preferably during the construction of the house. If the construction is of the pre-fabricated type, the investigation also considers the qualifications of the fabricator and the degree of control exercised over both shop operations and erection on the site.

If the investigation indicates that the proposed method should be satisfactory, a ruling covering its acceptance for use in properties financed with FHA-insured mortgages is issued. Suggestions made by FHA engineers, when incorporated in the design, in many cases permit acceptance of construction which would not otherwise be eligible.

After a favorable ruling is made, it is reviewed at the end of six months with a view to renewal or revision, based upon practical experience with the method in question. Acceptance of a new method is not an endorsement, nor will it assure FHA insurance of a mortgage on houses built by the method; for many additional factors enter into the analysis of properties accepted for mortgage insurance.

MATERIALS IMPORTANT

An important factor to be considered by prospective home builders who plan to make future additions to the house is the selection of the right type of material to be used, according to FHA officials. Many families of moderate means who are building only one part of their house now and will make additions as funds become available have chosen specific types of construction which are well suited to a house of this type.

LOCATION CHOICE SERIOUS PROBLEM

Prospective Owner Must Consider Welfare and Health

"Start from scratch," is the best advice that can be given to a prospective home builder who is selecting a neighborhood or a location in which to build, according to builders.

As far as possible, the prospective builder should eliminate from his mind all preconceived notions and prejudices, it is suggested. In this way every possible factor which could have a bearing on the problem will be worked through to the end.

First, builders say, the prospective home builder should decide whether he is going to build in one of the more centrally located residential districts or whether he wishes to move into one of the more suburban sections. If the family is composed of adults who are employed and who have little leisure time, the home builder may wish to live in one of the more populous residential districts. If, however, he has a few small children, or if he is fortunate enough to have considerable leisure time, he may feel that the spaciousness of the suburban areas will compensate for the longer distances which must be traveled to reach places of employment.

The physical character of the location should be seriously considered by the home builder as to the services offered and the protection given by restrictions and zoning. They also suggest that the neighborhood be judged in relation to the needs of the family, its social life, its welfare and health, and its general economic well-being.

Finally, builders caution prospective home builders to remember that the building of a home is one of the largest and most permanent investments they will ever make. It is a major step for the average family, and considering the importance and magnitude of the investment, it is only wise and fitting that the builder go into the matter of basic neighborhood requirements in a careful and businesslike manner.

In Medium Income Class

Housing economists agree that generally the cost of a home should not exceed two and one-half times the annual income of the purchaser. For the typical family, the property valuation of the new home purchased with an FHA-insured loan in 1939 was slightly more than twice the family's annual income. On this basis of reasoning the home illustrated here would fall easily within the means of the family whose annual earnings are around $2,000. It is valued at $4,250.

GARDEN CLINIC
By Victor H. Ries
Extension Floriculturist
Ohio State University

Q: What is the difference between Polyantha and Floribunda roses?

A: The classification Floribunda roses is simply a new classification into which has been put the larger flowering Polyantha and a few of the smaller flowered hybrid teas. Incidentally, you will find this group of roses extremely satisfactory for profuse bloom throughout the season.

Q: Can the double pyrethrum be grown from seed?

A: Although it is possible to buy seed of double pyrethrum from which you will secure some doubles and a greater number of singles, you will find by far the most satisfactory way to secure these plants is to buy named double varieties. This would include such varieties as Buckeye, Miami Queen, Princess Margaret, Trojan, Delicissima and Rose Glory.

Q: I have a sunny bank about 6 feet high and 75 feet long. It has just been left in front of my house by the lowering of the highway. What can I grow on this bank and how long will it take to cover it? Would myrtle be satisfactory? There is some growing in a neighborhood orchard that I can have for the digging.

A: Yes, the myrtle, or more properly called periwinkle, would be perfectly satisfactory for this situation. I would plant small pieces a couple inches square with runners about one foot apart each way on the bank. My observations have been that if you will mulch the bank with some rotted straw, peat moss or rotted leaves, it will not only tend to conserve the moisture but will enable the periwinkle runners to root as they grow and give much quicker coverage than otherwise.

Q: Are the new so-called doorway roses really hardy?

A: The doorway roses developed by Mr. Horvath of Mentor and listed by many of the rose growers, are completely hardy and extremely free flowering. Although the individual blooms do not equal the beauty of a hybrid tea, their hardiness and quantity of bloom make up for this lack.

Q: I would like to know what to do for roses that look white. The leaves dry up. Also what makes hardy phlox tops die and wilt, and when should I plant Oriental poppy seeds; also how to plant them.

A: The mildew on your roses can be prevented by dusting or spraying once a week and after each rain with some fungicide such as sulfur. The tips of your phlox are being injured by the phlox bug. I find it almost impossible to do anything for it since the only way you can kill them is to hit them directly with the spray or dust of pyrethrum or rotenone, and somehow or other they are never there when you are applying it. If you will simply pinch out the inch or two of the phlox that is wilted you will find it will send up a new top and will bloom a week or so later than usual.

Oriental poppy seeds may be sown during August and preferably kept in coldframes over winter. Since the seeds are very fine, they should only have one-eighth inch sandy soil or peat moss sifted over the top of them.

4,171 HOME LOANS REPORTED IN JULY

High Mid-Summer Mark Set by Insured Association.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31 — A brisk pace for mid-summer home financing in Ohio was set by the insured savings and loan associations in that state in July when 4,171 loans on homes aggregating $10,262,940 were reported to National Housing Finance Association.

During July last year there were 2,947 loans amounting to $8,087,610. As of August 1 this year the associations had home mortgage loans on their books totaling $552,417,000.

New savings placed by the public in the associations amounted to $14,871,070 in July as compared with $13,323,960 in the same month last year. Total private investments in these institutions on August 1 aggregated $374,963,000 as compared with $353,568,000 on August 1, 1939.

Such savings in these locally owned and locally managed thrift and home-financing institutions are protected against loss up to $5,000 per investor by the Insurance Corporation, a Federal Government instrumentality. As of August 1 there were $69,699 investors in the associations.

One hundred and sixteen of the associations operate under state charter and 119 under federal charter.

Marked Increase in Home Building Is Reported in Ohio After Survey

DAYTON, Aug. 31 — An unprecedented contra-seasonal expansion in residential building is under way throughout Ohio, W. A. Keyes, president of the Ohio Real Estate Association, said today after a survey conducted in major Ohio cities.

"In many places this great activity may be attributed to precaution among builders against higher prices which will undoubtedly result from the national defense program now just getting under way."

"Elsewhere," he said, "the activity is the result of housing shortages brought about by the shift of industries from one place to another or to expansions of old industries in many localities."

Nevertheless, he said, the expanded building program is the natural outcome of a basic truth in the real estate business: that when people work and make better living they seek better shelter.

Statistics of the trend are shown in the Columbus building department where it was shown that for the first half of August more than $900,000 worth of permits were issued, the highest for a similar period since 1937.

But the trend was well under way in July. The Dun & Bradstreet survey of building valuations in 215 cities of the United States showed July permit totals were 21.4 per cent ahead of the month last year.

Against expectations, the value of permits in July rose from $115,038,090 in June to $124,709,158 in July.

The Dun & Bradstreet survey showed Cincinnati and Cleveland added materially in the 6.9 per cent increase in building recorded throughout the nation in the first seven months of 1940 over last year.

Cleveland added up $10,022,100 worth of permits against $8,553,500 last year; Cincinnati counted permits valued at $11,550,725 against $7,933,805 last year.

Indians Jubilant As They Gain Half Game on Feller's 23rd Victory

Jeff Heath's Homer with Two Aboard Gives Tribe Winning Margin.

CHICAGO, Aug. 31.—Whooping Indians were throwing soapbuds in the shower room after Cleveland won last night's game from the Chicago White Sox 4 to 2. Shouted Bob Feller to his room mate Geoffrey Heath:

"Jeff, that's two games you've won for me on this trip with homers. You know how much I appreciate it."

Said outfielder Heath:

"About the only hits I'm getting are home runs. But I guess that one off Lefty Lee was worth five hits with the bases empty."

Feller was 10. Heath hit a home run with two mates aboard in the first inning and Feller bore down in the pinches and fanned 10 batters for his 23rd victory.

The Indians thus gained a half-game on their nearest rivals and lead the league today by two and a half games from Detroit and five over New York.

That set the stage for a battle today between the left-handed Smiths—Al of Cleveland and Ed of Chicago—in the second game of a three-game series.

Outfielder Julius (Moose) Solters hit a Chicago homer in the fourth but went around alone.

Heath again. Then Heath went into action again, leading off the sixth with a single, taking second on a sacrifice, moving to third on Roy Mack's scratch single and scoring on a fly.

The Boston Red Sox also closed in on the Yankees from behind by putting the Philadelphia Athletics through a 5-4 wringer. Ted Williams knocked the winning run across with a triple in the seventh inning to capitalize on Joe Heving's fine relief pitching, which permitted the A's only two hits in 8 1/2 innings.

Reds on Trail to Flag Despite Loss to Dodgers

CINCINNATI, O., Aug. 31.—Now that the Cincinnati Reds believe they are safely on the road to possession of another National league pennant, with a seven and one-half game lead, they expect to lose no time in clinching the championship.

Call Walters. The Rhinelanders have won 12 of 17 games with Chicago this season but they called their ace hurler, Bucky Walters, to face the Cubs today with the purpose of adding additional distance to their margin over the second place Dodgers.

The Dodgers stirred their pennant hopes yesterday by sleeping a 6-2 defeat on the Reds and splitting a two game series. The victory ended a run of four consecutive Brooklyn defeats at the hands of the Cincinnati club.

Luke (Hot Potato) Hamlin allowed the Reds 10 hits but stopped them cold when they got in scoring position and forced Junior Thompson, out for his 14th victory, into his eight defeat.

McCormick Homers. Frank McCormick got his 18th homer of the season in the opening round. The Dodgers squared the count in the second inning on two singles and a double, and broke the one-all deadlock in the third as Pete Reiser hit safely, stole second and rode home on Dixie Walker's single to left.

Brooklyn scored two more runs in the sixth as Reiser clubbed out a homer and Dolph Camilli followed with his 18th of the year. In the same stanza Ernie Lombardi and Jimmy Rippe counted the Reds' second tally on consecutive doubles.

Joe Beggs took over for the Reds in the eighth but the Flatbushers scored twice off him in the same round on three singles and an error by Lonnie Frey.

What Would Robin Hood Think of New Archery Fad?

Fishermen off Santa Catalina, Calif., are having great fun with bow and arrow fishing. It's a tricky business, requiring great technical skill. Roy Maples, shown here, is an expert.

Now Maples plays his fish, hooked by swivel points on the arrow tip which spread as the line tightens. The arrow, 30 inches of birch, is usually aimed below the fish to allow for the shaft's buoyancy. Sea bass, tuna and even bigger fish are caught.

A strike! Your arrow does the striking—don't have to wait for Mr. Fish. The line unwinds from the reel on the bow, an American design English long bow with 36 to 50 pound pull.

During the final two weeks the championship events in pistol, small-bore and 30-30 rifles will be run off. The small-bore range has 250 targets which may be set from 50 to 200 yards; 280 targets for pistol shooting at from 25 to 100 yards; and 379 targets for 30-caliber rifles. All firing is directly at Lake Erie, the bullets dropping into the water after passing through the targets.

Large red buoys, some more than a mile from shore, mark off the range of fire to prevent boats from entering the danger zone.

Practically all competitors are housed on the post, living in army tents, eating at army mess halls, and using army-issue equipment of all kinds. Government rifles are issued to all competitors in the 30-caliber races, along with army ammunition.

Busy Sports Schedule Outlined For Marion Area Sunday and Labor Day

Marionites will have a variety of sports activities to choose from over Labor Day week-end as baseball, golf, softball and tennis vie for a major share of attention.

Quarter-finals of the county-wide golf tournament being staged at Marion Country club will be completed tomorrow and the semi-finals will get under way Monday in all three flights. John Rife, last year's winner, will defend his title against John Peacock. Herb Petrich will meet G. E. Darnell and Bud Baker will tangle with Bob Owens in the other championship matches.

Country Club Schedule. Country club golfers will take advantage of the double holiday as they participate in a blind bogey tournament Sunday and a flag tournament Monday. In the bogey event the players will all have an opportunity to win, regardless of their scores. They will be placed in one of five classes depending on their finishing scores and there will be several winners in each.

The flag tournament will be based on the player's handicap. Each will be given a certain number of strokes to four in the course and when these have been used a flag will be deposited at the place of the last ball. The player that goes the greatest distance in the allotted number of strokes will be the winner.

The members will have until tomorrow night to finish first rounds of the president's handicap tournament.

Mar-O-Dei Plans. The men's and women's championships at Mar-O-Dei will be in the semi-final round. Walter Hughes will defend his crown against W. P. Cass Jr. and Mrs. John Rife will defend her title when she meets with Mrs. H. W. Kramer. A blind bogey affair has been arranged for Monday. Marion county's men's singles championship will be decided tomorrow at the Y. M. C. A. court.

John Dreher, present holder of this title, will meet the winner of the Tom Clark-John Smith match, which was to be played today. Men's doubles and junior singles matches of the county tournament will be in session both days.

Three Marion teams, Mercantile, Eagles and Young Democrats, will compete in the semi-finals and one or two of the same will be in the finals of Prospect's tournament. The tournament by virtue of a victory last week over Crestline, two time winner of the event, The Merchants, runners-up both years, are heavy favorites to win.

Wrestling fans will be much interested in the weekly mat show Monday because of the holiday, promoters said. The regular schedule will be resumed the following Monday.

Either Bill Everly or Harry Moak will be nominated for mound duty for the Merchants with Joe Darnell working behind the bat. Merchant players making the trip will meet at 1:15 p. m. at the home of Charles Reid of 39 West Church street.

Two baseball games have been scheduled for tomorrow afternoon at Lincoln Park as a benefit for the new fence being erected there. The Marion R.A.C.'s and Marion Colored A.C.'s will open festivities at 1:30 p. m. for their third and deciding meeting this season. Bacon will be on the mound and Paulus will be behind the plate for the R.A.C.'s while the A.C.'s will have Adams and Jones doing the chucking and receiving.

The Marion Independents will play host to Leesville in the nightcap beginning at 3 p. m. This is also the third and deciding contest between these two teams. DeVill and Anderson will be the starting battery for the Independents.

Community Center and Marion Eagles will take part in the four-team softball tournament that will be held at Seacalum Park of near Bucyrus tomorrow afternoon. The Swann Rubber and Baptist church teams of Bucyrus make up the other entrants. Community Center players will meet at 12:15 p. m. at Community Center house.

To Play at Sycamore. The Marion Eagles baseball team will journey to Sycamore tomorrow for a game at 2:30 p. m. Monday the Eagles will entertain the Bucyrus Merchants at Lincoln Park in a contest scheduled for the same time.

A previous meeting with the Sycamore club resulted in a six inning 0-0 tie. Fetter and Darnell will form the battery for the Eagles while Turner and Stubbs will be Sycamore's combination. The Marion players will meet at 12:30 at the Eagles hall in preparation for making the trip.

Bill Darnell will do the twirling for the Eagles in the Labor Day game at Lincoln Park with Catagno working behind the plate. Laipply and Cress will form the starting battery for the visitors.

By EDDIE BRIETZ. NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—News: If you like the Yanks you can get 3-1 in Jack Doyle's book...Mike Jacobs reported shifting from Billy Conn to Pat Comiskey as Joe Louis' next opponent.

Banks McFadden's successor in the tailback spot at Clemson will be Joe Blalock, an end, who chucks nerals from the port side and is the only triple threat in sight...Welby Van Horn, young coast net star, wants to break into baseball and was auditioned by the Red Sox last week...The football Dodgers offered Nye Kintoon a $7,000 contract...K. Lafoon has 75,000 yams in the bank and doesn't give a whoop if he never wins another golf tourney.

They're the Tops. They'll not win the pennant, but the White Sox still are the American league's champion jockeys. They stand in a body and applaud loudly whenever Joe McCarthy makes a rare emergence from the dugout.

Marion Youth Near TOP IN GOLF TOURNEY

Jack Jennings of Marion placed seventh yesterday in a field of 40 contestants vying for the Ohio Junior Golf championship at Lima Shawnees Country club.

Bob Myers, 18-year-old Wyoming, O., youth who has been playing for six years, captured first place as he fired a one-over-par 145 in the 36 hole medal play tournament. He bagged five birdies while touring the rain soaked course in rounds of 72 and 73.

Jennings, who formerly played on the tricky Shawnee course as a member of Lima Central High school golf team, shot rounds of 78 and 80 for a 158 total. Jennings is in the semi-finals of the County golf tournament being held at Marion Country club.

Dick Barr, 17, captain of the Columbus Arlington High school team, was runnerup with 148. William Fey of Oberlin finished third with 151 after a two hole playoff with John Zoller of Hamilton.

During the final two weeks the championship events in pistol, small-bore and 30-30 rifles will be run off. The small-bore range has 250 targets which may be set from 50 to 200 yards; 280 targets for pistol shooting at from 25 to 100 yards; and 379 targets for 30-caliber rifles. All firing is directly at Lake Erie, the bullets dropping into the water after passing through the targets.

Large red buoys, some more than a mile from shore, mark off the range of fire to prevent boats from entering the danger zone.

Practically all competitors are housed on the post, living in army tents, eating at army mess halls, and using army-issue equipment of all kinds. Government rifles are issued to all competitors in the 30-caliber races, along with army ammunition.
